A Powerful President
Mark Twain's 101st
To Store Food in Mines
Japan's Many Babies
By ARTHUR BRISABANE

Par-American-Grace. Airways holds a giant in reserve at Buenos Aires. The President may decide to fly back in five days, saving nine of fourteen days required by old fashioned methods.

Your President, most powerful man in the world, and using his power for peace and progress, certainly has an interesting life.

To have at your command the wealth, energy, intelligence and inventive genius of the United States, with courage to use them, combined with individual power almost unlimited, should make life almost too much worth while.

Today, 101st anniversary of Mark Twain's birth, will be celebrated in the usual American way, with a dinner and speeches. The committee awarding a prize for the best Mark Twain quotation and the best comment based on the quotation, were badly advised in one instance. The approved Mark Twain quotation reads: "Shakespeare created nothing, he merely created people whom God had created; but he created one himself."

The comment of the prize winner on that quotation was: "Man can create nothing. Everything himself, man has created everything that he has, from sharpened flint to airplanes."

As for Shakespeare, he created Hamlet, who never lived and has had more books written about him than all the men that ever did live in Denmark. Shakespeare created King Lear, also a Caesar far greater than Caesar himself, and a Cleopatra, far superior to the real Cleopatra, who was a homely, dark, plump, with a heavy, dark, pig, and Shakespeare created Falstaff. To say that he "created nothing" is like saying that Michelangelo created nothing when he painted the Sistine Chapel.

Both did nothing BUT create. While the President talks ease for all Americans, England, locked in her small island, separated by narrow water from European hatreds, realizes that it would be hard to keep out of a big war. She might, some day, move her imperial headquarters from London to Montreal or Quebec, as the French government since moved from Paris to Bordeaux, and the Spanish government recently from Madrid to Barcelona.

England wonders what her people would eat if she were forced upon her, with enemy submarines and airplanes snuffing her foodships. She is organized "food plan department" will try to stand alone for a year. As a "cave" for the food England is in a much more, going down thousands of feet, should be safe from bombardment.

Tokio reports for Japan the world's highest birth rate, 2,100 new Japanese infants arrived in 1935, more than in 1934, by 185,031.

Japanese marriages are increasing, divorce decreasing, the latter down to less than one in 1,000 marriages. Japanese husbands and wives get along better than Americans do.

China says she will risk war with Japan, rather than let Japan take more of her territory. If that war comes it will illustrate the difference between a country prepared, Japan, and one unprepared and discouraged.

Puts Life
In Peril

Picture from International News Service.
This lad has a talking malady. He talks so much that he does not sleep sufficiently to keep his body healthy. In fact, he has wasted away to 20 pounds. A small tie and toys that he plays with have aided in halting the continuous talking. He is Emmie Wilson, in a Memphis, Tenn., hospital. The strange malady has baffled doctors. Emmie was first thought to be suffering from meningitis. The lad is four. His hair has turned white.

Plan Charter Change for Mansfield 2d Term

244 WELLESLEY SCHOOL CHILDREN GO ON STRIKE

GAMBLING BAN ORDERED BY TIMILTY

Major Joseph F. Timilty, new Boston police commissioner, today caused the biggest stir in the department since the Garrett investigation by ordering a general cleanup of gambling, vice, liquor violations and other crime, with a threat of demotions if the order is not carried out.

Beginning a series of personal interviews with all members of the department, from sergeants up, he laid down the law to several captains and to the three deputies, James R. Clavin, William W. Livingston and John M. Anderson.

One captain, when asked about conditions in his division, told the commissioner: "Everything is perfect." "Major Timilty, pointing on his desk, said: "Don't kid me, because I know better."

"To holding you responsible for conditions by our division. If you don't clean them up, I'll get somebody who will and I'll mark you down to lieutenant." "I'll demote anybody who doesn't do the work."

MAP CHANGE IN BOSTON CHARTER

Plans to change the city charter so to permit Mayor Mansfield to run for re-election are under consideration by political enemies of Governor Curley, the Boston Evening American learned today.

The Governor's readiness to become a candidate for the mayoralty in the event that the Governor at any point, under his service, revealed yesterday in an exclusive interview in the Boston Sunday Advertiser, brought about a hurried conference of the forces hostile to the Governor, it is learned.

The plan understood to have been discussed by the group, out to block the Governor at any point, center around a revamping of the Boston city charter.

Specifically, the plan is to go to the voters on the question of whether or not the Mayor should be eligible for re-election.

Peace Pilgrim in Argentina

Roosevelt Hailed In Buenos Aires

Buenos Aires, Nov. 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt, acclaimed by hundreds of thousands, reached here early this afternoon for the opening tomorrow night of the 21-nation peace conference which grew out of his initiative.

The cruiser Indianapolis, which carried the President on his 15-day trip from Charleston, S. C., docked and the cheers of a huge throng on shore and the shrieks of whistles on hundreds of vessels in Buenos Aires harbor.

Escorted by an Argentine warship fleet and a river flotilla, assisted by a grateful throng of Argentine people, awaited by the city, the Indianapolis steamed slowly to the Plaza Mayor to disembark her historic passenger.

The Indianapolis reached the flower-decked quay at 1:30 p. m. (11:35 a. m. EST). James Roosevelt, the President's son, was the first aboard. He shook hands with Argentine President Justo and others in the reception group.

President Roosevelt dined at the Hotel de la Ciudad.

PARENTS GIVE ORDERS FOR WALKOUT

Wellesley's bitterly-fought doubling-up program went into effect today at the Sprague and Fiske grade schools and 244 pupils were immediately called out on strike.

Members of the advisory committee of the Parent-Teachers Association kept the children home from afternoon classes charged the school committee with "double-crossing" and forecast that unless peace is made schools in all eight districts would be emptied.

The parents insist that behind the school board's new scheme is a plan to take schools in that child area of multi-district families away from the children's parents.

Chairman John D. Brennan of the advisory committee, who said he had been "reassured" the doubling-up program would not be effected until after a school board meeting tonight, declared: "I've got more chance than I had in the last campaign," he replied, with a smile.

Lloyd George Reaches Bermuda

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 30 (AP)—David Lloyd George, British war time premier, arrived here today for a "few months' rest" which he said he would devote to writing the "peace volume of his memoirs."

Seventy-seven degrees below zero. That was the temperature over Boston today—that is, 50,000 feet above the city.

It was made possible by a new invention for keeping weather instruments on soaring balloons from freezing. Developed by the staff of the Harvard University Blue Hill weather observatory.

Although it is as accurate as airplane observations, it is accompanied by no more, and much further than the airplane, and may prevent the deviation from being put to general use.

Dr. Charles F. Brooks, director of the observatory.

It costs approximately $40 to equip an ordinary weather balloon with the new device, whereas an ordinary airplane observation costs but over the Atlantic and back.

The device developed by Dr. Brooks and A. E. Felt of the Blue Hill staff, causes the instruments to be cooled and insulated in being put to general use.

The balloon was sent approximately two miles.

The balloon was sent aloft from the observation station at 2 a. m. today and reached a height of 50,000 feet. The device, however, was in the stratosphere, giving a reading of the temperature of the stratosphere.

Baby Takes a Bow-Shows He Can 'Take It.' Too

Baby must be weighed. That important weight-taking at birth, must be followed up each day so that doctors may know the progress of their little patients. Nurses Lavinia Fulton, Gertrude Mayo, Gertrude Kulu and Agnes Abela, are holding babies as they await time to put their charges on the scale. This picture was made at the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital.

WORLD'S TOP JOB HELD CARE OF BABIES

YOUNGSTERS LAUGH AT PAIN

Even a quintuplet doesn't get any better care than Boston babies do in the hospitals of this city.

From the all-important moment of their arrival in this world through the first life and when that hour, "newcomer" there is placed in the arms of a nurse, taking and kindly treatment.

It is not just the baby, it is the mother, too. It is the greatest job in the world.

"Take Baby" is the name of the nurse who takes care of the baby. She wouldn't enjoy looking after a money-dispositioned young man.

Baby is just receiving from a mother's hand, the first of the life, but, as he rocks in his favorite "nest," he is already a picture of a child.

And, in the beginning, weight is a very important thing. Every day at the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, Nurses Lavinia Fulton, Gertrude Mayo, Gertrude Kulu, Agnes Abela and many others care for the babies. They are weighed, and their mothers are given a picture of their baby.

CAVE-IN Kills WPA WORKER

FIVE ESCAPE IN WHITMAN

Forster W. Nutter, 30, of Broad street, Whitman, father of four children, was killed today when he became trapped in an eight-foot ditch following a cave-in of a Works Progress Administration water project on South avenue, Whitman.

He was pronounced dead by Michael Egan, a T. T. Redford of Brookline who said he died of a fractured skull, internal injuries and severe shock.

Five others, working near Nutter, escaped injury when they fled from the path of the flying sand and rock.

Nutter became tripped, police said, when his head got caught between a piece of rock and part of the wall which had crumbled.

Nutter was heard to utter a cry for help before he died. He was dug out after 27 minutes of futile labor by his fellow workers.

Nutter was employed with 30 others, laying water pipes on the street.

Delirium at Dusk; B. C. Works a Football Miracle

SELDOM HAS A BOSTON CROWD BEEN so swept by the tide of its emotion as the Boston College crowd which spilled down from its outfield bleachers to the Holy Cross game and began a grand triumphal dance over its one-point victory. This wasn't one of those routine big-game victories, whose sweets may be gulped and then forgotten. It was one of those judgments of complete triumph which happen only once in a lifetime. For in 1936, the first of those when sports writers are likely to find a story in their memories which will make it and one that has a great deal of B. C. boys will keep forever given wonder two or three of the future big games get together for downtown readers over a bowl and a beer.

Boston College hadn't won the traditional, blue banner contest for three years and, when Holy Cross punched over a pair of quick touchdowns while holding 11 customers were still swarming up the ropes. It was not expected to win this one, either. In fact, when one H. C. player happened right place after the end of the game, another must have been told to go back to the crowd. It was a great game, but the crowd was not to be disappointed. The crowd was not to be disappointed. The crowd was not to be disappointed.

THERE WASN'T A SPAR OF LAST SUMMER'S grass on the field and the lush, green acres of the baseball season were skinned like an Arizona prairie and hard as cellophane. It was the combined hardness of the ground and B. C.'s whizzing line, that caused the H. C. regulars to come down with what Trainer Bart Sullivan diagnosed as a case of hard luck and retire for surgical taping and stitching.

...the crowd was not to be disappointed. The crowd was not to be disappointed. The crowd was not to be disappointed.

Lynn Boy's Story of Heroic Fight Aboard Speeding Freight

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY!

Well, my imagination has been at work at the subject of a heroic fight on a freight car, and you will find it will take your breath away.

FLOYD GIBBONS

And here is Lynn Boy, of Washington street, Lynn, the latest Bostonian Adventurer to win his spurs in one of those square fights which only comes once in a while on the coast of New England.

It was in the summer of 1935 that Lynn Boy, then a student at the Lynn High School, was in the city of Lynn, Mass., when he saw a freight car speeding down the coast.

They began by hitting each other with their fists, but in the time they were fighting, they were making a terrible noise, and the freight car was moving faster and faster.

They were making a terrible noise, and the freight car was moving faster and faster.

HANEY REVIEWS MARKET

Little Net Change SHOWN BY COMPOSITE Stock Averages

By LEWIS HANEY

(Professor at Simmons, New York University)

New York, Nov. 30.—The stock market last week was a mixed affair, in which there was little net change in the averages. Some composite averages were up and others down, but none changed more than fractionally.

For the present, this fact is a favorable symptom. With so many sizable operators on the side lines, and so much profit-taking, the market would have retreated further if there were not much strength.

The plain fact is that since I warned that the market had over-extended bullish factors, and that a reaction was threatened, the decline has been less than might have been expected. That was three weeks ago. This is why a week ago I wrote more optimistically of market prospects.

Last week the action of the market justified the return to a more bullish position. After the Monday sell-off, the majority of stocks traded in moved higher each day. Not only that, but on each day except Monday, the 20 most active stocks averaged higher at the end of the day than at the beginning. (A perfect day-to-day trading score in the most active stocks would have netted a gain of over 2½ points for the week, despite the loss on Monday.)

In view of the troubled European situation, and our own labor and political uncertainties, this is a strong showing. It begins to look as if some of the experts have stepped aside too soon: If the market can go ahead without them, what may it do when they get in again?

On the bear side, one may say that unquestionably the quality "leaders" among stocks have done little, and that a good many inferior and high speculative issues have assumed leadership.

The railway stocks have been backward. The movement of prices has not been closely in proportion to volume of trading.

The direct of government action in restricting movements in the stock market is regarded harshly at present, when the underlying trend is upward. These threats include various schemes to restrict credit available for speculative manipulation.

The threat of a general European war, and the possibility of the foregoing points, the government action to restrict the market seems most important at the moment, but it is by no means conclusive. The chief proposal is to increase reserve requirements again, thus reducing "excess reserves." But I think that the market depends more on bank deposits than on loans.

Anyhow, as long as the reserve authorities regard bank reserves as excessive only when in excess of "prospective needs" of commerce, industry, and agriculture, there need be no fear. Inflation is the surest way to make "prospective needs" of business men larger and larger.

Mr. Hodges has no more idea of a standard of credit than John Law. And who ever hears of a stock market boom being stopped by high money rates?

Most signs point toward irregularity, but further net gains. The combination of (1) higher prices for the most active stocks, (2) higher prices for a majority of all stocks, and (3) a large number of new highs, is hardly bearish.

DRASTIC LAWS OPPOSED

Special to Boston Evening American

Washington, Nov. 30.—Self-regulation, under a minimum of government supervision, is being advocated by important business groups as an effective means of combating drastic legislation and rendering further action in the public interest.

Leading the movement are the National Retail Dry Goods Association, the National Manufacturers Association, the National Grocers Association, and the National Food Manufacturers Association.

Other industries which are drafting bills to be introduced in the House and Senate are the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Chamber of Commerce, and the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

The National Retail Dry Goods Association is drafting a bill to be introduced in the House and Senate. The bill is designed to prevent the Federal Government from imposing excessive taxes on the retail dry goods industry.

RETAIL Trade GAINS BOSTON AMONG BEST AREAS

BOSTON AMONG BEST AREAS

Washington, Nov. 30 (U.S.)—Continued expansion of retail trade in all parts of the country is reported by the Commerce Department in its weekly business review.

Cold weather and holiday demands were the principal factors in sending buying levels still further ahead of last year, although the "continuing flood of bonus payments, wage increases and augmented dividend disbursements" also contributed to the strong forward trend, the report stated.

Meantime wholesale markets were reported as keeping step with the faster tempo of retail sales. In November and New York department stores during the week ended Wednesday reported a net increase of 10 per cent over the same period last year. Automobile sales also were reported brisk.

In Boston, retail trade was 22 per cent greater than a year ago. Wholesale trade reports from the Pacific Coast indicated a net gain of 15 to 18 per cent. In Philadelphia, the 14 city which failed to register advance over both the preceding week and the 1935 period, was because of a strike among employees in several department stores.

Notwithstanding the maritime strike, trade reports from the Pacific Coast continued to be favorable with the exception of Portland, Ore., where the strike of the longshoremen continued to hold ground, but largely to inhibit the movement of goods rather than to curtail demand, as it was reported, held up fairly well, according to the report.

Los Angeles, the Southern California business index reached the highest point since 1928, with almost all lines showing in the advance. Department store sales in Seattle revealed substantial gains over the same period last year. Wholesale trade reports from the Pacific Coast indicated a net gain of 15 to 18 per cent.

Both retail and wholesale trade moved forward substantially in the leading Southern cities. Retail trade in Atlanta and New Orleans was 16 per cent ahead of last year, while in Atlanta, the gain ran as high as 20 per cent.

The Commerce Department's information collected for their annual California referendum showed that the State's economy is in a strong position to withstand the effects of the maritime strike and the effects of the strike of the longshoremen.

EFFECTS Of Election STOOD By Congress

Indicated By New Survey

Washington, Nov. 30 (U.S.)—Congressional and administrative investigations of major interest to the business world will be held this winter, a survey today indicated.

Simultaneously congressional committees will resume exploration of the administrative branch of the government with a view to lopping off needless bureaus.

Reopening of Congress, January 3, will see a renewal of every investigation resulting in legislation and industry, not only by Congress, but by various boards, bureaus and commissions.

The Senate Interstate Commerce committee on December 7 will begin its study of management and financing of railroads. That investigation was expected to continue several months.

Early in January the La Follette Senate committee investigating the rights of labor will resume hearings. Stock market practices are being scrutinized by the securities commission, possibly pointing to another fight in Congress over regulation of brokers.

The Federal Communications Commission is investigating the giant American Telephone and Telegraph Company, while the Federal Trade Commission awaits the violation of fair trade practices and the Patent and Trademark Office is investigating the practices of the government.

An early report to the Senate by the Phipps committee investigating the rights of labor will be made. The committee is investigating the rights of labor, and the Senate is expected to take action on the report.

Canadian Wins Wheat Title at Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 30 (AP)—Herman Trede, Wembley, Ala., farmer, regained the wheat crown of the world at the International Grain and Hay Show, giving him a double "knighthood" title because of his victory.

The Peace River Valley farmer scored the great victory on his return competition after three years enforced retirement because of previous wins.

It was the sixteenth time in 18 years that Canada has won the wheat title. Trede's sample was called "red" and he had 66.3 pounds of wheat per bushel.

Legends of Zaharoff

SIR BASIL ZAHAROFF, who lived a legendary life, has passed on to the greater mystery of death.

This strange man, credited with power over the destinies of many nations and millions of people, was probably neither enigma nor ogre. He was human enough to keep a diary, and astute enough to destroy it.

A dealer in the implements of war, he was hated because the people of the world hate war. But he wore the highest honors of nations that found him useful.

The mystery surrounding the life of Zaharoff was artfully utilized by him. Perhaps his real ambition was that the legend of his mystery should live far beyond the span of years allotted to even so powerful a man as he.

If Zaharoff plotted wars between nations, armed one against another that his grim wars might be profitably marketed, he was indeed a dread figure, as much of the world has long believed.

But more than one nation relied upon Zaharoff for the assurance of security.

Perhaps his services to the nations that have honored him are as legendary as his reputation as an international menace.

Certainly, one of the most interesting men in history has lived—and died!

Nine Boys in Sing Sing

THERE is food for serious thought on the part of the American people in the fact that there are NINE YOUTHS, ALL UNDER 21 YEARS OF AGE, awaiting execution in Sing Sing.

When James J. Sullivan, 17, arrived in Sing Sing the other day after being sentenced to death for murder, he made a remark that must strike with iron knuckles on the heart of every law-abiding mother and father in the land:

"PLENTY OF KIDS HERE!"

The greatest problem before all parental associations and betterment organizations, together with our churches and patriotic societies, is DIVERTING THE ATTENTION OF our boys from gangster "ideals" to the more normal expressions of their instincts for adventure.

Nothing in this respect is better than the inculcation of the love of sports—THE ROUGHER THE BETTER.

Patriotic societies should take up this question, for patriotism can have no higher aim than A WAR ON CRIME AMONG THE YOUNG.

NINE BOYS in Sing Sing awaiting the chair—that is something to arouse our civic and patriotic activities to action!

Books Everyone Should Read

The best literature is not always the most expensive.

This, the Boston Evening American provides by giving its readers an opportunity to have a twenty-volume library of world classics for the approximate cost of two modern "best sellers."

These books, representing the outstanding works of such masters as Sir Walter Scott, Poe, Goldsmith, Shakespeare, Thackeray, Hawthorne and Washington Irving, should be in every home.

To read them, not once but many times, is to broaden one's education and to enjoy a fuller life.

His Life or Death?

Portrait of Sir Basil Zaharoff, the legendary arms dealer.

Readers who study this picture can write their own editorial.

Here is the drama of the court room, pregnant with apprehension. A man on trial for murder. His loyal wife beside him. Apprehension—dark furrowed on the lines of his brow.

The jury foreman arises—slowly. He moustache his lips. A heavy silence weighs upon the assemblage. Minutes pass.

This is what the photographer saw and felt in Los Angeles, where James Henderson, shown above, was acquitted. It might be any court room, any trial, any man or woman.

For, truly, even death on the gallows can bring no agony as great as the helpless waiting for the words that mean life or death.

U.S. to Open Cancer War

By DR. C. C. LITTLE

Managing director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, Dr. C. C. Little, president of the University of Michigan, director of Jackson Memorial Hospital, Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Me.

A war of great importance to our country that has now been started.

It is a war to save lives and to take the cancer out of the life of the people. For of all the diseases known to man, cancer is the most deadly.

The cancer which has been known to man since the dawn of time, has been known to man since the dawn of time.

We have information which is being used by the American people.

DISCOVERY OF AMERICA,
3000 MILES AWAY FROM EUROPE.

In the present state of Europe
Found a continent so distant
From the dangers and the terrors

Managing the old world nations
Torn by ancient feuds and hatreds,
We have reason for happiness
That a new world was discovered.

Marry Go-Round

Honeybees appear to be getting shorter and shorter, and more and more violent with every edition of the newspaper. And when a bee approaches, it seems almost foolish to white man on a Yuletide gift.

YOU CAN shut mental doors and you are neither very rich nor very poor. You can shut mental doors and you are neither very rich nor very poor.

YOU CAN shut mental doors and you are neither very rich nor very poor. You can shut mental doors and you are neither very rich nor very poor.

YOU CAN shut mental doors and you are neither very rich nor very poor. You can shut mental doors and you are neither very rich nor very poor.

YOU CAN shut mental doors and you are neither very rich nor very poor. You can shut mental doors and you are neither very rich nor very poor.
